My dear friend,

On our return from Yorkshire to Carlisle, it occurred to us that we might see thee in Newcastle by delaying our journey for a day or two - so we have returned here & can go up to Newcastle at any hour if thou wilt tell us when & where we may find thee.

It is a great disappointment that we cannot receive thee at home, but our circumstances at present are not quite within our control. & we hope from thy kind letter, received a day or two ago, that we shall have the great pleasure of welcoming thee in Edinburgh in September. - Still we are anxious to seize the present opportunity of taking thee by the hand, our beloved & honored friend. a note addressed here will find us.

My mother sends her dear love

Thine very affectionately
Eliza Wigham
